To whom it may concern:

I am extremely interested in the new vaudeville circuit organized by Sharon Evans and Rick Rogers. It is an extremely worthwhile project, concerned as it is with a heretofore neglected part of this country's history and culture.

Variety entertainment must survive and thrive. Talented performers need to hone their crafts before live audiences, and the circuit begun by Evans and Rogers is an ideal way for them to do it. This circuit will hopefully expand until this country is once again dotted by performance venues supporting, not just the institution of variety, but the wonderful performers who provide it.

This is an exciting, needed new endeavor.

Yours sincerely,

Herbert G. Goldman
